Fire Destroys Gaeta Building On San Pablo

A stubborn and spectacular fire which broke out suddenly at 8:30 Monday evening in the Gaeta building, 928 San Pablo Avenue in Albany, caused an estimated loss of upwards of $50,000.

The building which formerly housed the Roberta Restaurant, had been practically rebuilt and was currently occupied by the Gaeta Realty Company, on the north side, and by Gaeta and Brophy, attorneys, on the south half of the building. The building was owned by G. D. Gaeta, chairman of the Albany Civil Service Commission.

Origin of the fire has not yet been determined, but may have been caused by a cigarette which had been left unnoticed when the office closed for the day, according to Albany Fire Chief Gerald D. Browne. Chief Browne said the property was covered by replacement insurance.

San Pablo Avenue traffic was interrupted between Buchanan Street and Solano Avenue, with a single lane of northbound traffic permitted along the east curb line. Other traffic was diverted west on Buchanan, or to the east on Marin Avenue.

Two pieces of fire apparatus were brought in from El Cerrito, as well as two police cars, while a number of firemen from Kensington also assisted in fighting the blaze. Berkeley was unable to help as a three-alarm blaze was reported there almost simultaneously with that in Albany.

Chief Browne attributed the stubbornness of the blaze to the many units into which the building was constructed, each of which burst into blaze when broken into. The partitions, he said, were of varnished filipino mahogany plywood which is especially flammable.

Cerebral Palsy Society Meets

The new system of report card grading in the Richmond Public Schools will be explained by Miss Helen Pence, Supervisor of Elementary Education, at the regular meeting of the Cerebral Palsy Society, which will be held at 8 o'clock, Thursday evening, March 9, at Christina B. Cameron School in El Cerrito.

The pros and cons of the recently adopted grading system in relationship to handicapped children will be discussed after Miss Pence's talk by the parents of Cameron School pupils, according to Troy Kitchen, program chairman.

COUNCIL DISAGREES IN VOTE ON PRE-SCHOOL

The City Council divided Monday night on a dispute over granting its approval to the hiring of Marian Wolf as assistant director at the Albany Pre-School. The dispute came up over a proposed contract whereby the city receives payment from sponsors of the Pre-School covering a $75 salary, which it repays by city check. This method has been in effect for some time and was adopted in order to include the employee in the city's overall employee insurance. It actually costs the city a trifle more than two dollars a month in Federal tax. The Pre-School is entirely supported by parent donations, although it has been customary for appointees to the Pre-School staff to be approved by the council.

This matter has been postponed from previous meetings, and action was supported Monday night by Councilman Howell, who was joined on the vote in favor of approval by Councilman Parker. The city attorney declared there was no reason, in his opinion, why it should not be approved. The vote was Howell and Parker in approval, with Councilmen Boych, Hein and Mayor Caravaro dissenting, and voting to refer the matter back to the Parks and Recreation Commission, which is an advisory body.

A number of those in the audience spoke in favor of the Howell-Parker stand for immediate approval on the ground the Pre-School is a private organization, entirely supported by parents of the children.

Present at Monday night's meeting was Benjamin Linsky, Bay Area Air Pollution Control Officer, who spoke for half an hour on the subject of air pollution and its control. He complimented the city on its cooperation with the district authorities and told of the strides already attained in reducing smog and the effects of air pollution upon vegetation, health and various degrees of damage to buildings, manufacturing plants such as bakeries and chemical industries, as well as to its deteriorating effect upon paints and building materials. His talk was illustrated with a number of maps and charts.

In other matters the council ap-

Mrs. Olson Tells of San Miguel Allende and of Their Interesting Mountain Trip to Guanajuato

(In this the sixth and final installment of Mrs. Olson's account of her recent trip with her husband to Mexico City and the historic towns and villages which surround it, she describes the "Mummies of Guanajuato", and many other interesting highlights of the country of the Aztecs.)

By MAY ELLIS OLSON

While in San Miguel Allende we learned of some of the work of the Y.M.C.A. World Service that we have contributed to for many years. They have a kitchen set up at the hospital. There, anyone will be fed a hot meal and be given medical help. In Mexico there are no government provisions to take care of orphaned children or aged people. Most of them exist by begging.

Our hotel was the Vista Hermosa, operated by Jose and Ruth Torres. Mrs. Torres was an American married to a Mexican. In their employ were 3 to 4 children from 12 to 14 years old, without families or homes. They were the lucky ones.

We went on a one day trip by taxi to Guanajuato, about 200 miles round trip from San Miguel Allende. We drove over enormous mountains with craggy cliffs towering above the narrow road; passed by lush foliage and small rocky streams in narrow valleys. We felt very insignificant in the midst of this stupendous and rugged, wild garden-like landscape. As we neared the City of Guanajuato (Whona-Whato), capital of the state of the same name, it appeared to be in a cup-shaped valley with buildings creeping right up to the rim. The name of the city means "mountainous place of frogs". It was once a primitive Indian village inhabited by Chichimeca Indians, about whom little is known. Gold and silver were discovered near the city by the Spaniards in about 1554. At that time, the city was established.

A short distance from the city

we stopped to visit the Church of La Valencia, named after one of the once rich mines of the district. It stands on a high hill between valleys overlooking the wild, beautiful landscape of this dry, wrinkled land. The church is of perfect proportions. All the stone work in its lace-like facade harmonizes. There seems to be just one bell in the tall belfry. The whole structure is rather rococo in its general theme. The massive entrance door is similarly rococo, abounding in carvings of holy images, small figures and foliage. The church is dedicated to Saint Cayetano. The main altar, dedicated to its patron Saint Cayetano, is very well preserved and in an ascending design covering the total height of the place it occupies. On either side are altars dedicated to the Virgin of Guadalupe and Assumption of Mary. About the whole interior there was an atmosphere of ancient piety. In the sacristy, behind the altar, stood two tall antique wardrobes separated by a chest with long, narrow drawers. Here the priests kept their robes and stoles. The pulpit, of great value, was encrusted with tortoiseshell and ivory.

We found Guanajuato a fascinating city of some 34,000 population, still maintaining the beauty of colonial times. The streets and alleyways cross in all directions. They penetrate the suburbs and climb up or descend the brows of the mountains. The houses crowd together at different heights in a Moorish conglomeration, going up in steps, adapting themselves to the uneven terrain. Many of the streets have beautiful or unusual names: the street of "The Kiss", an alleyway so narrow one must almost kiss to pass; Lane of the Monkey's Leap; the Tumble, and others.

A statue of gigantic proportions, a man holding a torch in the air, overlooks the City and is called "Pipila". History tells of the Spaniards holding the Granary and shooting down the Mexicans as they tried to storm it. Pipila, holding a large flat stone over his head, crept up the mountainside with a burning torch and set fire to the wooden door of the granary, so saving the city.

ALBANY CHIEF OF POLICE Ralph M. Jensen, left, is shown talking with Hardy Jackson, the city's Humane Officer, who is retiring on April 1. Jackson has been with the city for nearly six years and, as Jensen says, will be a hard man to replace. He is very well-liked among the citizens. A farewell banquet for Jackson is to be held the evening of March 17, at Kirby's in El Cerrito, and tickets may be obtained from any police officer. Jackson is planning on retiring to his 68-acre farm near Winslow, Arkansas. He will be accompanied by his wife. — Gazette photo.

In the Parish Church is an exceptional wood carving of the Virgin of Santa Fe, standing above the main altar. It is a sculpture carved of an unknown wood, about 55 inches high, and represents the Virgin Mary with the infant Jesus in her arms. There is a wonderful life and beauty to the features of the Mother and her Divine Son. It was said to have been done in the first half of the 16th century and was a present to the city from Philip II. We paused briefly to inspect the Teatro Juarez (Juarez Theatre) with its lovely dome carvings and box seats straight to the ceiling. Here is where operas, concerts and other theatrical plays are held.

We had been told of the mummies of Guanajuato and these were eager to see. We found the Civil Cemetery high up on a ridge overlooking the city. Backed by a mausoleum, the cemetery was adorned with many beautiful and pretentious marble and granite memorials, crosses, angels and the like. We learned that because there are so many poor people who do not have the funds to buy a crypt in the mausoleum, crypts may be rented by the month. If, after a certain period, the rent is unpaid, the person is removed from the crypt and placed in a dungeon under the mausoleum until their family is able to pay up the obligation. Because of the altitude and soil conditions in the area, a natural mummification takes place. We were taken down a steep winding stone stairway and viewed with amazement several hundred mummies leaning against the walls of the dungeon, each with a tag of identification around his or her neck. We left the place with a shudder, a veritable museum of death — open to the public.

The day was almost gone. We started back to San Miguel Allende. Looking back, we said goodbye to Guanajuato tucked in its deep valley in sleepy peace.

After several more days in San Miguel Allende, we returned to Mexico City to board our plane for home. The mammoth terminal at the airport was teeming with humanity. Many of them were colorful sights as few Americans can resist the bargains to be had in Mexico: giant sombreros, multi-colored serapes, hand-woven bird cages, and not to forget packages of liquors or brandies. Each visitor may bring home a gallon of the latter, tax free.

As our plane swirled over the cities of Mexico, we felt a keen regret that our time in this country of the Aztecs had been all too short.

Drive with extra care when approaching school crossings.

Albany Council

proved unanimously a request that the change in routing of the "L" bus should be questioned, and an endeavor made to include a stop at Buchanan Street.

Recommendation of Police Chief Jensen for the increase in length of the bus zone on the south side of Portland Avenue, east of San Pablo, from 30 to 60 feet, was approved.

Request of Angelo S. Speseto for abandonment of Bayview Street was ordered referred to City Engineer Turner.

Request of the Solano Avenue Merchants Association for council cooperation in the proposed Easter Fun Gram, scheduled for March 30, was approved.

Resignation of Hardy Jackson, Humane Officer, effective April 1, was accepted with regret. It was announced that a farewell dinner the evening of March 17 at Kirby's was being sponsored by the Fire and Police departments, and would be open to the public.

Conflicting recommendations were received from the city engineer and the chief of police on the request of Jay-Vee Inc., for four green spaces on the east side of San Pablo north of Washington. Chief Jensen indicated his approval of the request, but the city engineer recommended two spaces be granted, and the other two be held in abeyance. The city engineer's recommendation was unanimously adopted.

The council approved the request of the city engineer that plans and specifications for the rehabilitation of the city jail be advertised.

A public hearing on change in setback on Lots 7 and 8, Block 2, Regent Park Map No. 4 (925 Kains Avenue), from 15 to 13 feet, was approved.

Albany Police Praised For Prompt Action

Following is a copy of a letter sent to Albany's Chief of Police, Ralph M. Jensen, in praise of the efficiency and prompt action of the local department in arresting a pair of burglars, who were attempting to rob a local pharmacy: Mr. Ralph Jensen, Chief of Police, 803 San Pablo Avenue, Albany 6, California. Dear Sir:

While I was out of town, burglars entered my pharmacy and fortunately triggered the burglary alarm. I am writing this to express my thanks and admiration to you and to your men who caught the pair. I understand that Officers Gil Madrid and Carl Lindh made the actual arrest and whilst I am particularly grateful to them I realize they depend upon the rest of the service that dispatched them to our store. In these troubled times, I feel most assured that in Albany, law enforcement is in such capable hands. Thank you again.

Yours very truly,

MORE AMERICANS ARE INJURED EACH YEAR IN AUTO ACCIDENTS THAN WERE INJURED IN BOTH WORLD WAR II AND KOREA COMBINED

It's a fact: 774,230 American servicemen injured in the last two wars. And yet, over 1 million auto injuries are reported each year! Good reason for car insurance coverage against costly accidents. More and more careful drivers are insuring with State Farm and enjoying complete car insurance protection, plus "Hometown Claim Service" wherever they drive. Contact me today.
